

Rice Fergus Miller Wins Training Center

Bremerton, WA- Rice Fergus Miller has been selected to design a multi-jurisdictional training facility for fire and law enforcement personnel in Snohomish County.

Snohomish County Fire District 7, Woodinville Fire & Life Safety (King County Fire District 36), the Cities of Everett and Lynnwood and the Snohomish County Sherriff have teamed together to construct a Regional Emergency Response Training Center. The training campus will include Class A & B burn props, live-fire drill towers, confined space props, administration offices, classroom space, emergency vehicle driving, and other training and support spaces. The approximately $25 million project will kick off with a master plan effort in August for the 50-acre site.

Rice Fergus Miller teamed with Elliott, LeBoeuf & McElwain, a Virginia engineering firm specializing in fire and police training centers. Both firms are well-known in the industry through their published articles and regular speaking engagements at national conferences regarding the design of emergency facilities.

Located in downtown Bremerton, Rice Fergus Miller provides architecture, interior design and planning services. The firm can be reached at www.rfmarch.com.
